e-learning – Mind and Body Healthcare: Addressing mental and physical health needs	This interactive resource explains how physical and mental health commonly influence each other, and helps all staff recognise the additional health needs of their patients and identify appropriate services to refer them to. It includes ‘patient journey’ case studies to demonstrate how health problems often require coordinated treatment across the healthcare system. Allow about 30 minutes to complete the full resource and gain a personalised certificate.	All staff	Free	Go to https://learninghub.kingshealthpartners.org/product?catalog=khp1082c This course is also available on KCH, SLaM and GSTT internal learning management systems.
1-day clinical skills course – Adults	This course aims to equip staff with clinical skills to help manage both the physical and psychological needs of patients using role-play, interprofessional group work, and didactic teaching to follow two patient journeys through different healthcare pathways and systems.	Practitioners working in mental health, physical health and social care	Free	Email mindandbody@slam.nhs.uk Current dates: 27 September 2019
1-day clinical skills course – Children and Young People	This course aims to equip staff working with children, young people, and families with the skills to help manage both the overlap of physical and psychological needs of patients, as well as develop a better understanding of contextual factors that affect health outcomes. The course use role-play, interprofessional group work, and didactic teaching by following two patient journeys through the healthcare system, whilst maintaining awareness of the impact on the whole family, and the wider systems around it. 5-day IMPARTS course	This CPD-accredited course covers the key mental health presentations to the general hospital over five taught days. Each taught day has a different clinical theme, covering the topics: the confused/agitated patient; the distressed/depressed patient; the patient with medically unexplained symptoms; the substance misusing patient; and managing conflict. The course aims to develop staff's ability to reflect critically on clinical experiences and integrate the body of research evidence on mental health problems in a general hospital setting into their practice. Staff will become familiar with common presentations, assessment, basic management and ethical issues related to that clinical presentation. No prior knowledge of mental health is assumed.	Clinical health professionals working in general hospital settings	£650	Complete the form on the IMPARTS website or imparts@kcl.ac.uk
